

DIES IN AUTO SHOOTING

Grace Mills, 19, of Waltham, found shot dead in an auto in Waltham today. Her escort, Joseph F. Buckley, is near death from self-inflicted wounds. He says the girl first shot herself but he "finished it." He claims a "suicide pact," but police are investigating the tragedy.

Buy Furs Now.
Thanksgiving Wisdom.
20,000 Pearls, or Wives.
Women Must Weep.

ANORMLY hot weather interferes with sale of furs, overcoats and other "cold weather goods." It's bad for business, but the wise citizen finds it good for his pocketbook. IT WON'T BE HOT ALL WINTER. Buy overcoats and furs NOW, and save money. All merchants are reducing prices.

In his Thanksgiving proclamation Governor Smith of New York advises the people "to pray for wisdom in USING the gifts of Providence" and that is the best Thanksgiving advice in a long time. It is easy in this prosperous country to acquire wealth, not so easy to use it wisely for the good of others, and the good of your soul.

An expert from Sweden says jewels formerly owned by the Turkish Sultan are earth's most magnificent. They include "a throne of pure gold, covered with 20,000 Oriental pearls." That sounds grand, but really isn't. The man sitting on the 20,000 pearls was nothing but a dull Turk, always afraid some one would poison him or steal his wives.

Twenty thousand more Circassian wives would have done him as much good as the 20,000 Oriental pearls, and that last saying much. It isn't what you have, but what you do with it that counts.

Birth control and publishing information about it are approved by Britain's "National Council of Public Morals."

Theoretically women should have the right to decide how many children they will have.

But it is well that understanding of birth control has been postponed. It might have prevented the arrival of Napoleon and Carlyle, and surely would have prevented the arrival of Caesar, a nineteenth child.

The rule, "Men must work, and women must weep," seems fair enough. But women have had more than their share of weeping.

YOUTH KILLS WALTHAM GIRL AND SHOTS SELF WHILE ON AUTO RIDE

After riding for hours with the body of his 19-year-old fiancée, Grace Mills of Waltham, on the seat beside him, Joseph F. Buckley, 23, of Weston, drove his car to Main and Rich streets, Waltham, today, stepped out of the machine—and shot himself.

Buckley, at first given up as dying at the Waltham Hospital, but given an even chance for recovery late today, confessed to police that he shot and killed the girl after she had shot herself while sitting in the parked machine in Sudbury.

"She was in agony and kept pleading with me to end it, to finish her," he said in telling his gasping, broken story.

"She said, 'End it, Joe. Oh, end it! I'm in awful pain. Finish me; finish me!'"

Cincinnati, Nov. 16.—Correspondence that passed between George Remus, on trial for murder, and his wife, Virginia, when he was shot and killed, was obtained exclusively by International News Service today, on the third day of the trial opened with eleven, tentatively accepted jurors in the box.

The following note disclosed to Remus, then prisoner in the Atlanta Penitentiary, that his wife was planning to divorce him. It was written in pencil by Mrs. Remus on a Western Union blank and read as follows:

CALLES GUATEMALA AMBASSADOR TOLD TO NO CAUSE OF SACASA

By JOHN PAGE

Washington, Nov. 16.—A golden flood of Mexican pesos flowing into Central America by millions for the purpose of installing an anti-American government in Nicaragua is shown and proved with official Mexican government documents published by the Boston American and associated Hearst papers today.

President Calles, elated by his success in organizing a "Liberal" revolutionary movement in Nicaragua through methods exposed by the Hearst papers yesterday, and his further success in thwarting American efforts to restore peace in that war-torn country, strained Mexico's slender resources almost to the breaking point to supply his Nicaraguan associates with rifles, cartridges and gold.

Mexican money also was spent unsparingly in a world-wide propaganda campaign in favor of the Liberal movement in Nicaragua, which was intended to prevent American construction of the proposed transcontinental canal, remove the country from the American sphere of influence, and attach it as a tail to the Bolivian kite being flown by Mexico.

President Coolidge, after some hesitation due to incomplete information as to the origin of the Liberal revolt and its real significance, had decided it must not succeed, and his decision was drawing the fire of radical and pro-Mexican elements everywhere in the world. Wherever Mexican money was needed to intensify the fire, it was forthcoming.

The seat of the Nicaraguan Liberal revolutionary government was established by its titular head, Dr. Juan Bautista Sacasa, at Puerto Cabezas, on the northern Atlantic coast of that country, in the first week of December, 1926.

President Calles, immediately after receiving notice of this event, issued an order on the Mexican Treasury Department for a hundred thousand pesos, to be delivered to Alfonso Cravito, the Mexican Ambassador to Guatemala. The original order, signed by Calles himself, is in the possession of the Hearst papers.

100,000 Pesos Ordered Sent Envoy in Guatemala

The purpose for which the money was intended will be apparent from the text of the order. It follows:

To the Citizen Secretary of the Treasury and Public Credit.
You will please direct the Treasurer General of the Nation to issue a pay-warrant in favor of Alfonso Cravioto, Ambassador of Mexico in Guatemala, for the sum of 100,000 pesos ($20,000 U. S. gold) for expenses for newspaper propaganda in favor of Mexico.

You will please transfer this money through the Bank of Mexico.

Order at the same time that this warrant be charged to SECRET EXPENDITURES of the Department of Foreign Relations, from the current budget.

(Editor's note: In the foregoing and other documents published in this series the use of the word "Citizen" will be noted. This is radical nomenclature, first used during the French Revolution, and corresponds to the Communist "Comrade." It has been used in Mexican official documents for several years.)

The motto "SUFRAGIO EFECTIVO NO-REELECCION" was first used by the Mexican President Francisco Madero, who revolted successfully against Porfirio Diaz, many times President of Mexico, with that slogan as his war cry. Translated, it means: "Effective Suffrage and no re-election of Presidents." It is a noble ideal for which many Mexicans have died, vainly, for suffrage never has been effective in Mexico and the Mexican Constitution has been amended by the Calles Administration so as specifically to permit the re-election of Presidents. The motto is still used on Mexican official documents.

This sum of money, therefore, was to be applied to "newspaper propaganda," and to be charged to "secret expenditures" of the Department of Foreign Relations. Calles was trying to hide from the world and even from his own people his costly efforts to subsidize the press of Central America and purchase its support of Dr. Sacasa's "Made in Mexico" Nicaraguan Government.

At just that time certain Central American papers were virtually a unit in praising the Sacasa Government and demanding its immediate recognition by their own countries, and in condemning the existing Nicaraguan Government. Almost immediately they charged the United States with upholding the "reactionary" Conservative Government against the will of the Nicaraguan people, and absolved Mexico from any connection with the Sacasa movement.

Ambassador in Nine Days Asked for More Money

This fifty thousand dollars lasted Ambassador Cravioto just nine days. On December 15 he asked for and received twenty-five thousand dollars more for the same purpose. Again we have the original order on the Treasury Department signed by President Calles, reproduced in facsimile elsewhere in these columns together with its English translation. It follows, textually:

To the Citizen Secretary of the Treasury and Public Credit.

You will please direct the Citizen Treasurer General of the Nation to order the transfer of the sum of 50,000 pesos, national gold ($25,000 U. S. gold), through the Bank of Mexico and its branch in Zuchiate, to the Citizen Ambassador of Mexico in Guatemala, Alfonso Cravioto, the said sum to be applied to propaganda expenses in favor of Mexico.

You will charge this item to special expenditures of the Department of Foreign Relations.

Alfonso Cravioto is Mexico's first Ambassador to Guatemala and for years has been known as one of Mexico's ablest educators and writers. He was sent to Guatemala for the definite purpose of winning that country to an anti-American understanding with Mexico.

Cravioto's articles in Guatemalan papers, his eloquent speeches and the social and political connections he quickly formed in Guatemala City, all contributed to make him a formidable rival of Arthur H. Geissler, the American Minister and dean of the diplomats there. It was then the Mexican Government raised its Guatemalan legation to the status of an embassy and Minister Cravioto became Ambassador Cravioto, with social and diplomatic precedence over the American Minister, Mr. Geissler.

Cravioto Enthusiastic in Scheme in Nicaragua

When the Mexican Government undertook to establish a puppet government in Nicaragua, Ambassador Cravioto was one of the most enthusiastic supporters of the scheme. He took general charge of Mexican activities in Central America, and through his hands passed much of the money contributed by Mexico to keep the Liberal fires burning in Nicaragua. While many large sums of money are known to have been given him for this purpose by Calles, just one will be cited in this article. It must not be confused with the smaller payments for anti-American propaganda.

On February 3 of this year, when the Liberal forces were in possession of all eastern Nicaragua except the "neutral zones" held by American Marines, President Calles ordered his Treasury Department to furnish Cravioto with two million pesos ($400,000, approximately).

This money was ordered sent in gold by the Bank of Mexico, with all possible safeguards, and to be charged to "secret expenditures of the Executive." The money was shipped to Zuchiate, on the Guatemalan frontier, heavily guarded by federal soldiers, on February 3. From

Venezuelan Radical Was Financed on Mission

This million dollars was used for the specific purpose of making war on a weaker country, tried by Calles and found guilty of the double crime of "Conservatism" and "pro-Americanism." Smaller sums were employed, from time to time, not only to influence newspapers but to send Latin-American and Russian agitators into Guatemala City, but were always in some way connected with the general Bolshevik scheme.

Horacio Blanco Fombona, a Venezuelan radical and occasional contributor to American magazines, was one of those selected for such work by Calles. Elsewhere we reproduce the order signed by the Mexican Executive to provide funds for Fombona's trip to Guatemala on a mission of "confidential character." The English text follows:

To the Citizen Secretary of the Treasury and Public Credit.

You will please direct the Treasurer General of the Nation to order the issuance of a pay-warrant in favor of Horacio Blanco Fombona for the sum of five thousand pesos national gold ($2,500), for expenses on a trip in the performance of a mission of confidential character confided to him by the Executive, in Guatemala.

Anti-U. S. Cash Spent Lavishly

THE Boston American publishes today the third of the series of articles revealing the anti-American activities of the Calles administration in Mexico. This article, using for the purpose official Mexican documents obtained from the secret files of President Calles, shows:

THAT much of the foreign criticism of the American government's foreign policy in Nicaragua was bought and paid for by President Calles.

THAT on December 6, 1926, Calles ordered his treasury department to give $50,000 to the Mexican ambassador to Guatemala, Senor Alfonso Cravioto, for that purpose.

THAT on February 3 of this year Calles ordered a million dollars sent to Cravioto for the purpose of financing the Nicaraguan insurrection.

THE documents published today, photographically and textually, begin to explain the unprecedented wave of criticism, at home and abroad, of President Coolidge's Nicaraguan policy. This criticism perplexed our chief executive and hampered him in doing the things he knew must be done if American interests were to be guarded and American obligations to weaker nations fulfilled.

THE revelations contained in the fourth article of this series, to be published in the Boston Evening American tomorrow, will be of grave interest to those who have feared the spread of bolshevism in the American continent.

BOSTON AMERICAN

BATHTUB THUG VICTIM

BOSTON, WEDNESDAY, NOVEMBER 16, 1927

NARROW GAUGE 2 NEAR SCENE OF 'BATHTUB' BEATING

The famous old "Narrow Gauge" — officially the Boston, Revere Beach & Lynn Railroad — has been sold, according to announcement made today by Atty. Samuel Hoar of No. 34 court street, counsel for the new owners.

Karl Adams, son of the late Melvin O. Adams, president of the road, confirmed the sale before departing for New York. The sale ends the long management of the road by the Adams family.

"Yes, it is true we have sold the old family home," Mr. Adams reluctantly admitted. "But you may be sure the old home is going into good hands and will have a good home and fine treatment."

Adams said he sold 5,000 shares of the outstanding 8,500 shares for $87,500. To protect minority stockholders, provision was made in the terms of sale that the minority holder would have the right to receive the same price. The road is capitalized for $1,125,000 with stock of $100 par value.

Attorney Hoar, who handled the legal aspects of the sale, declined to name the purchasers or reveal plans for the future. "You may say that the people riding on that road will continue to get a ride on it," he said, "it is the plan of the new owners to electrify the road." He was asked, "Is it the plan of the new owners to electrify the road?" He replied, "Yes, it is."

Mr. Adams went on to explain that he made an intensive investigation of the purchaser and their plans before he even entertained their proposition to purchase the railroad.

Two strange men, seen lurking near the Riverway apartment of Mrs. Daisy Wood, victim of an attack, are sought by the police for questioning in regard to the beating the young woman received during a fight she reported as a robbery.

The men were reported to Special Officer George A. Hunter of Station 19, when he questioned neighbors of Mrs. Wood. The assault occurred while Wood was at the movies.

Mrs. Wood rushed into the apartment of Janitor Hapgood, clad only in silk stockings and bleeding from the effects of a broken nose and bruises on her face. She told Hapgood she had been attacked while taking a bath, robbed and beaten when an intruder became dissatisfied with the proceeds of his haul consisting of a few bills and several articles of jewelry.

Some of the articles cited were found in the apartment later. Hapgood obtained clothing and notified the police of Division 19, who rushed Mrs. Wood to the City Hospital.

Captain Gullivan of Station 19 assigned Sergeant Donnan and Special Officer Russell to the case. Mrs. Wood's husband told the police that he attended the movies following a tiff several hours before his wife rushed to Hapgood's apartment.

A Newton man entered the case when the young wife asked police to notify him of her predicament. He rushed to the hospital and talked with the injured woman.

KING'S CHAPEL BOX ROBBED

After stealing the contents of the poor box in King's Chapel just before the noon service today, a thief dashed away through the Tremont street crowd with Sexton Harold Haines chasing him and the burglar alarm ringing wildly.

The thief escaped as the shopping crowd gathered about the church, attracted by the bell.

The poor box, containing a large sum contributed yesterday after services led by Dean Charles R. Brown of Yale, was pried from the wall by the thief and the contents removed. The alarm was connected with it and brought the sexton or the run from another part of the chapel.

BISHOP HICKEY URGES BAN ON WOMEN IN CHOIRS

Providence, Nov. 16 (A.P.).—The Rt. Rev. William A. Hickey has suggested to pastors of Roman Catholic churches in the Providence diocese that they gradually eliminate women from their parish choirs.

The bishop's suggestion was based on a decree of Pius X, issued in 1903, which condemned the use of female singers in church services. Lack of enough male singers in the choirs was given as the reason for failure to eliminate the women.

KIN SCOFF AT 'SUICIDE PACT' IN TRAGEDY

Will, the aunt, grandmother both of whom refused their names and the 21-year-old brother of Grace Mills, auto shooting victim, asserted today that the girl was so ill that she could not leave her home voluntarily, the girl's attending physician, her younger sister and neighbors, declared that she had been taking walks and rides for some time.

The aunt, grandmother and brother, William, scoffed at the theory that Grace slipped away from her home voluntarily to keep a rendezvous with death.

William Mills asserted that his sister, now dead, had been taking long walks every night and that she was as weak from illness that she could not walk up or down the steps of the house. He expressed an opinion that she had been carried away from the house.

Earlier, however, the 17-year-old sister, Dorothy, had told reporters that her sister slipped away from the house at midnight and that the policeman and nurse who found her were found on her bed on the front veranda.

Dr. Conrad Bell of Greenwood, Mass., who had been attending Grace Mills for heart trouble, incurred through fatal infection, since she died, said the girl had been growing stronger every day and that three weeks ago, he gave her permission to walk alone and to take auto rides.

"I would never have dreamed of Grace Mills doing a thing like this," said the physician. "She had been strong on her mind as far as I was concerned. It was this element in her character that was pulling her through and she was of a fighting disposition, eager to live and to fight for life."

Mr. Joseph Hodgson, a young bride and cousin of Grace Mills, who was walking with the girl in Waltham yesterday and that Grace was vivacious and expressed her happiness at her returning home.

Shoots Himself

Joseph F. Buckley, Waltham youth, who shot self today in auto while riding with fiancée, Grace Mills, also of Waltham. The girl was found dead in his car.

KILLS GIRL AND SHOOTSELF

"I hated to do it, but I finally fired a second shot into her. She fell over against the side of the car and I was glancing her up again. Then I drove around and around not knowing what to do."

Medical Examiner Thomas M. Gallagher of Newton told the Waltham police, however, that both shots could have been fired into the girl by Buckley. The medical examiner will perform an autopsy.

Dr. Gallagher, in his investigation of the tragedy, confronted Buckley in the hospital and asked him point-blank if he fired both shots into Grace Mills. Buckley denied firing the first shot.

Buckley said he met the girl at a midnight tryst where she had pretended to go to bed in her home in Mortimer street, the Roberts section of Waltham.

Her mother, Mrs. John Barry, and her sister and brother, all opposed her going to Waltham. The girl had agreed that if they could not live together they would live together.

Mrs. Barry has remarked since the death of Grace's father some years ago.

"We, Grace and I, met yesterday afternoon," related Buckley, "and we agreed to go out at midnight in my car and commit suicide."

"We decided that if we could not live together, we would die together. She told me that she could not marry because of the opposition to her marriage. It discouraged both of us."

KEEPS MIDNIGHT TRYST.

Last night she pretended to go to bed. Then, at midnight, she stole out of her home in the Roberts section of Waltham. I had the car waiting and we drove to Waltham, where we stopped the car and tried to agree which one would do the shooting first.

"We argued whether I would shoot her first, or whether she would shoot me. We could not agree on this and we argued so much that we finally returned to Waltham."

"While we were talking, Grace suddenly grabbed the gun from the seat and shot herself in the breast. She fell over against the side of the car in the corner and was in great agony."

"She cried and asked me to finish her. She said, 'End it, Joe, End it. I am in pain, finish me. Oh, finish me.'"

"I hated to do it, but I finally fired a second shot into her. She slumped over against the side of the car. I straightened her up and then I drove around and around, not knowing what to do, whether to tell the police or shoot myself."

THENS GIRL ON HIMSELF.

"When I came into Waltham I thought I had better use the gun as we had planned, and I stopped the car."

"I walked up and down the sidewalk for a long time, watching a few men go by. Then I pulled out the gun before I could get to thinking again and I fired it."

The sound of the shot brought Patrolman McKeena running to the scene of the double tragedy. It was then about 6 a.m. and the midnight, but for how long Miss Mills had been dead, Buckley could not remember.

Patrolman McKeena raised the youth to the Waltham Hospital, where surgeons at first said he could not possibly live, the bullet having nearly slipped his heart.

The girl was found to have been shot twice through the breast, the second being sufficient to cause death instantly.

The 17-year-old sister of Miss Mills corroborated Buckley's story of Grace slipping out of the house at midnight after having said she was going to bed.

Buckley has been employed for three years as a general man on various estates in Weston and Waltham. He is understood to be from somewhere in Nova Scotia and has no relatives here.

Miss Mills was a graduate of Waltham High School.

According to the police, Buckley has been in court twice, once in 1925 for attempting to run down with his machine, Police Officer Michael Hartigan, and again a year ago for attempting suicide by drinking poison.

Sold Death Gun

JOHN NAGLE

CAFE MAN SOLD BUCKLEY GUN FATAL EVE

The 35-cent automatic pistol used by Joseph F. Buckley in shooting his fiancée, Grace Mills, after he claims she shot herself and in then putting a bullet into his own body was sold him by John Nagle of West Newton, he told police today.

Nagle, proprietor of a lunch room in Washington street, West Newton, startled the police by declaring that Buckley had talked with him about a gun as long as three weeks ago, although the sale was made yesterday.

"I have known Buckley for more than a year," Nagle said. "He was a customer of mine. Yesterday he came in, excited about a gun and told me he was going to Vermont, and another fellow to get John in the food area. He said he wanted a gun to protect himself while driving at night over the road."

"About three weeks ago he had spoken to me about wanting a revolver."

Buckley Clutches Bracelet Girl Gave as "Pledge"

As Joseph Buckley, Weston youth who confessed to firing the death shot into his fiancée, Grace Mills of Waltham, this tragedy victim, lay in Waltham Hospital today, he clutched a bracelet as a pledge that she would meet him at midnight, he murmured. "She took it off and said, 'Hold this, dear. This is my pledge that I will meet you tonight.'"

"I told him then that I had a 25 automatic which I had kept in a desk drawer at home for a number of years."

"Yesterday when he came to be asked for the gun, it cost me $25, but I told him I would let him have it right and I sold it for $15. I wish I hadn't now, but I suppose if he didn't get a gun he would have got some other."

Nagle was taken to Waltham Hospital to attempt to identify Buckley, but Buckley's condition was so poor he could not be seen.

Cleveland, Nov. 16 (A.P.).—Discouraging the idea that the American farmer ever will be reduced to the status of a peasant, Louis A. Taber, master of the National Grange, gave the farmers a pep at the silver billings of agriculture's "dark cloud" in an address before the national convention here today.

Predictions that the nation will go hungry because the farmer has failed to keep step with mechanical and scientific progress are untrue, Mr. Taber said.

"The American farmer will never become a peasant," he said. "The American people never will go hungry because the farmer has failed to do his part."

N. E. COUNCIL TO STUDY FLOOD SITUATION

Springfield, Nov. 16 (A.P.).—The New England flood situation was today listed as a subject for major consideration by officers of the New England Council which holds its third annual conference here tomorrow and Friday.

Plans were announced to devote the entire general session tomorrow afternoon to consideration of this subject.

The principal speaker will be Fred J. Howland of Montpelier, Vt., president of the National Life Insurance Company, who was recently designated by Gov. John A. Weeks to the post of emergency financial commissioner in connection with the flood rehabilitation program.

A few of the delegates to the conference, expected to number between 100 and 120, arrived today. The association of chambers of commerce of Western Massachusetts will give a reception tonight for the delegates, with President John S. Lawrence of the council and mayors of Western Massachusetts cities in the receiving line.

New England is facing industrial problems that are causing more people and capital to move out of the region, it is being, either through business failure or removal of business elsewhere.

This is seen and substance of a report of the council's committee on public relations and community organization which will be discussed at an early session.

The committee's report says that 318 chambers of commerce and boards of trade in reply to a questionnaire, show that 191 communities gained 415 new industries in 1926 and lost only 196. The total net gain in the new industries was 17,966 against 12,890 lost.

The spirit of cooperation found in New England newspapers was praised by the public relations committee. This cooperation, the report says, has been one of the greatest factors in dispelling an impression that New England was sinking around.

The report urges "that New England communities give serious thought to local taxation in its effect upon their industries."

Flood Damage to Railroads Estimated at 3 Millions

St. Albans, Vt., Nov. 16 (A.P.).—The damage to the railroads of Vermont is "in excess of that suffered by any railroads in the United States at any time," according to Herbert J. Page, director of the flood investigation for the Canadian National Railway.

At present, Mr. Page said, there are more than 1,000 men working day and night to establish main line traffic on the Central Vermont, which runs through devastated areas in the northern and central sections of the state.

A partial estimate of the total damage to all railroads in Vermont was given by Mr. Page as, $10,000,000. $10,000,000 to $15,000,000, St. Johnsbury & Lake Champlain Railroad; $1,000,000, Montpelier & Wells River Railroad; $250,000, White River Railroad; $300,000, and the Springfield, Vt. terminal, $125,000.

OIL MAN FACES $100,000 FINE IN CONTEMPT

Washington, Nov. 16 (A.P.).—Determined to force the issue against unwilling witnesses in the oil case, the government today got an order from the courts directing H. M. Blackmer to show cause by January 8 why he should not be held in contempt and ordering him to pay $100,000 to be set off against his property in the United States.

The action is based on a statement made at the last session of Congress. His attorney Senator Walsh, Montana, who made it, charged that Blackmer had been guilty of fraud in the oil leasing negotiations and prosecution of the Senate inquiry.

Blackmer has ignored subpoenas and his counsel indicated he would appeal the Walsh law unconstitutional. His testimony is being regarded as a violation of the Continental Trading Company, Ltd., of Canada, through which he passed the $250,000 in Liberty Bonds that the government charged found their way to Albert B. Fall after he leased the Teapot Dome naval reserve to Harry F. Sinclair.

Blackmer is an oil man, who is somewhere in Europe.

A two-alarm fire on the top floor of the four-story building, Nos. 117 to 123 Fulton street, North End, gave the fire department a stubborn battle early today and before it was extinguished damages estimated at $5,000 had been caused.

Occupants of the building are the New England Grocery Company, the Deacon Creamery Company and the Union Importing Company. The cause of the blaze has not been determined.

DOCTOR FINDS BIRTH RATE IS CUT BY AUTOS

Providence, Nov. 16 (A.P.).—Automobiles are competing with the work, in the opinion of Dr. Harmon P. B. Jordan, superintendent of the Providence Lying-in Hospital.

The city birth rate in 1925, was lower last year than in 1924, and probably will be lower this year than last. Some of this decrease, he believes, may be accounted for by the fact that many persons, unable to afford both automobiles and children, prefer to own automobiles.

Dr. Jordan declares automobiles are offering competition, even to food. With the increase in recent years of the "upkeep" of children, the practice of birth control is becoming more widespread, he says.

However, Dr. Jordan believes, the share of the family budget which might otherwise have been devoted to the raising of children.

The lying-in hospital feels the keenness of the competition for it accepts only maternity cases and thus suffers when the birth rate decreases, while other hospitals have their "boom times" of menaces, chicken pox and similar diseases.

Nevertheless, Dr. Jordan believes, the wealthy and relatively well-to-do families are bringing up larger families than formerly.

Yale at Stadium
19 Years, 1 Touchdown
Jinx Worries Yale
By NICK FLATLEY

ONE YALE TOUCHDOWN IN 19 YEARS AT STADIUM

HISTORY and tradition have much to do with important football games. That is why Harvard students always have hope with the Yale game ahead, even though the ancient rival has a team that plays relentlessly through any kind of tough competition, while the Crimson outfits stagger more or less successfully along, although encountering opposition that may not be any too big-league.

In this year of grace and upsets, Yale should be a ten to one favorite to win Saturday's game. The Elis have built up a remarkably fine record, after stepping off on eleven wrong feet. They are champions of the East. Harvard has been beaten badly by Penn, Dartmouth and Purdue.

But there's a wild sort of hope burning in Harvard hearts these days that precede the big battle. For Yale is limited by the Cambridge Stadium. The Elis have won games there, but they never have been impressive doing it.

They have scored only one touchdown in the big horseshoe in 19 years. Ducky Pond did that four years ago, in the midst of a reproduction of the deluge, the most terrific football spectacle ever seen in these parts. The players that day were mud-covered phantoms, indistinguishable through the rain and the fog.

They slithered in the mire and puddles, like trench warriors in the darkest and wettest days of the Western Front—fearsome figures in what might have been a presentation of some madman's notion of Gehenna. Pond, a great back, squirmed past a bogged mass of drowning athletes, and sloshed grimly over the goal line.

No Yale man had done that since 1908. No Yale man could do it two years ago, though the Elis had a team that was, on the dope, four touchdowns better than Harvard. Yale comes to the Stadium Saturday with that depressing record to think about. A Harvard team that will be desperate anyhow, will have the psychology of nine Yale goal line failures to carry it across the hard spot.

Old Doc Psychology plays at least as much football as any mortal star in these games. An inspired Harvard team, with tradition pointing the way, will have some chance with a Yale crowd that cannot be blamed for being slightly over-confident.

HARVARD, WHATEVER ELSE, HAS THE COURAGE OF CONVICTION. THE SHOWING OF ARMED HORREN FOR ANOTHER 35 MINUTES TO PRODUCE THE ATHLETES HE HAS ADOPED FROM CHURCH AND FRESHMAN TEAMS. B. C. MIGHT TALK NOTICE.

ALL MARSTERS IS YEAR'S MOST VALUABLE STAR

FOOTBALL should follow the lead of baseball and make annual awards of some sort for the most valuable player. This would introduce a new brand of continuity and continuity and your grid fans love nothing better than the latter product. There would be very little argument this fall, however.

If young Al Marsters, Dartmouth sophomore, isn't the best pluckiest hero that has appeared at Thorpe, Heaton, Cox and Eddie Mahan, there is not a crumbier on Cape Cod.

This kid is a sure enough football genius. His first year, he was a far better football player than the illustrious Red Grange ever thought of being. He could run, kick, pass, tackle, interfere, or what have you, and do it right through every period of every game.

Al, if he isn't killed in a football game, will live with the football immortal for his two more years at Dartmouth. He carried the ball more than a mile in games this year. He kicked more successful passes than any other player in the country. You can't find three or four punters who outkicked him over the stretch of the campaign. And no defensive back tackled much harder or drove perhaps Niles Miles of Princeton.

The Arcturian kid never had time taken out for bumps or bruises. He didn't make a mistake in his career. He never got hurt. He never got a fumble. He never got a punt. He never got a kick. He never got a pass. He never got a tackle. He never got a block. He never got a foul. He never got a penalty. He never got a suspension. He never got a warning. He never got a reprimand. He never got a censure. He never got a rebuke. He never got a scolding. He never got a lecture. He never got a sermon. He never got a lecture. He never got a sermon.

The expert who misses him in All-America selection is stepping on his own neck.

MISTER SHARKEY LOSES $60,000, AND LAUGHS

NICK SHARKEY, nursing a bruised hand, loses at least $60,000 because he cannot box Master Henry in New York Friday night. Jack Sharkey gives, remarks, "oh, well." It doesn't worry the big boy a bit. He knows he will get that $60,000 as soon as his cracked paw mends. Loss of it just now will not make him a Christmas any the less merry.

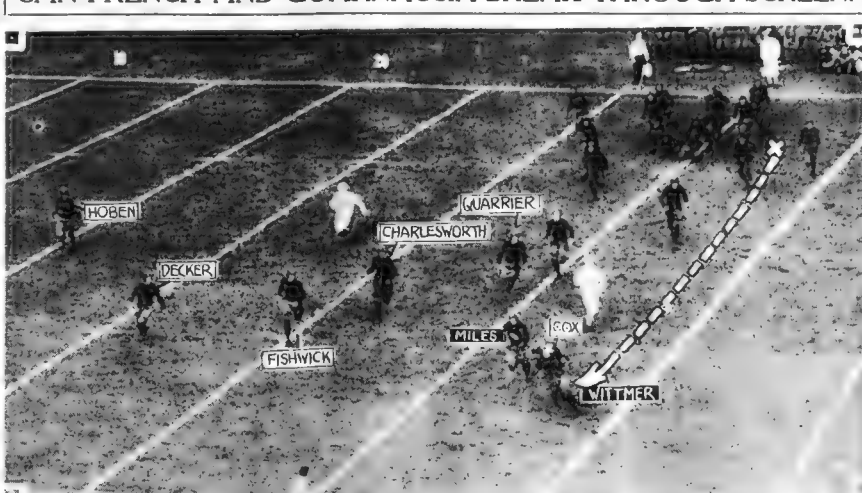

Jack is a fortunate young man. Four or five years ago he was a loafer in the hazy, pulling down $30 a month. He didn't have a dime, nor an extra cent when he was being smacked around in his first prim bout.

Now he laughs when fifty grand, as the boys say, flows right out the window. Who said there wasn't any Martin Class? The old boy doesn't wait anymore, but when he picks, he picks.

HARVARD'S LATERAL PASS IS DUE FOR A SEVERE TESTING IN THE YALE GAME SATURDAY

If this picture is a true indication of the speed of the Elis to make a fast shift to stop an end run. Wittmer of Princeton is a fast boy, yet Cox has nailed him for no gain, while five other Elis are bearing down on the Tiger. The Guarnaccia to French lateral pass will have stiffer opposition than that furnished by Brown last Saturday.

JOE CROSBY HAS SORE BEEZER

Unless Proboscis Shakes It Off Today Other Crimon Plans Will Be Made

Horween Signs to Coach Harvard Next Fall

Arnold Horween, 25-year-old coach of the Harvard football squad, has signed to coach the Crimon team again in 1928, according to Harvard football authorities for the last two years under his leadership have been at a lower ebb than at any other time in the history of the sport here.

The announcement was made officially by William A. Blinnham, Harvard athletic director.

An unexpected bolt has joined the Harvard football ranks and is raising havoc with the Crimon drive before the Yale game on Saturday.

This unexpected bolt to the Harvard squad is just about enough to ruin the Crimon drive. As now Harvard attack, it has ended the pivot of the new attack "line" and the afternoon there is a search for a "silly substitute."

Coch Arnold Horween had no voice tacked his name to a new football coaching contract that it was discovered that Joe Crosby, the Crimon best back and the man around whom the new Harvard defense is centered, had added a bolt to his comely features and the situation arose out of the point of the nose.

Only for this Harvard would be up to schedule with its new attack practically sound. At present the bolt still persists around at each practice and Horween has been forced to "change in plans altogether by inserting Arthur French in the place of the unfortunate Crosby.

SPETS HOWEEN SCHEDULE
On Monday Horween's "silly" plans made out for the week. Had Crosby as the main factor in his new attack. On that day Crosby was just getting over his lag in June and everything looked as if it would be a "silly" substitute.

Crosby's nose which was turned to a ghastly red after the late lancing of the bolt.

Horween still hopes that the new defense will clear up the situation and that Crosby can be inserted into the backfield. The doctors on the other hand, they feel that the Crimon line will not be able to stand, but hope that they can bring him back in a condition when he can relieve some player late in the game.

The present backfield for Harvard has Gordon Brown, Joe Potter, Arthur French and Dave Guarnaccia, as backs. French's original role was to swell these backs, but the intrusion of the bolt on the entrance into the Crimon lineup.

Potter, the Harvard's heavy-weight, will do most of the kicking and punting. French and Guarnaccia will put on the lateral pass and Guarnaccia only has to duplicate his efforts in the Brown game to see the Yale defense on Saturday.

SOME HARVARD TRICK PLAY
Harvard has a medley of new plays. There appears a Dartmouth blind to the new formations. The Crimon is likely to attempt to reconstruct the O'Brien-to-Tully passes, with Potter unable to handle the long passes with almost the same precision and accuracy as the old Dartmouth halfback.

There are other trick maneuvers which have been kept secret. "Hank" Shaughnessy has sold the coaches several ideas on the power of the lateral pass and the entrance of Jesse Harvey of Dartmouth into the Harvard line camp has no doubtless result in plenty of Big Green Moss.

Horween and Louis Coach Duke Durne have gone into many ruminations concerning the makeup of the line which will face the Big Red.

The present decision is to stick to the veterans and not to give any chances with Mitch or Turner. The coaches are keeping Turner as a reserve for the sole reason that he is still weak and is likely to be in a "silly" situation early in the game. This will be the Crimon's only Saturday line-up.

Arnold Horween is calling the line and Jim Combs are betting it will be a "silly" situation. Douglas is the most likely of the trio to nail the assignment.

SCHOLASTIC CHATTER

By Joe Cashman

THE Brighton High team closes its season this afternoon when it faces Jamaica Plain in a District League game at Braves Field. Neither team has had a very successful season to date, but the past mistakes of the eleven that wins today will be entirely forgotten. Consequently, there will be a lot of action at the Wigwam.

Brighton has in the Ryder one of the best halfbacks in schoolboy ranks, but Joseph doesn't score many touchdowns because his mate is never able to give him any assistance. Captain Tom Patis is another of the Brighton boys who doesn't appear as great as he really is, because of the lack of interference which has featured the play of Tom Scanlon's charge all season.

Many high boys are planning trips for Saturday with Manchester. N. H. High scheduled to visit Waltham and Everett being booked for a visit to Boston.

Manchester and Everett, along with Lawrence, are the best schoolboy outfits in this section of New England. Local fans are anxious to see them in action against opponents who have a chance of stopping them, and that will be the case Saturday.

Both Manchester and Everett should win, but if either should get down, the result could be termed the great upset of the season. The underdog Belmont and Winchester eleven face their hardest test of the season Saturday, when they take on Arlington and Milford (Manchester).

Nashua High, which suffered its first defeat of the season at Canaan last week, this weekend and last week's defeat at Canaan will be the last at the expense of the Nutmeg.

Latin School as a result of its decisive victory over Mechanicville, is a heavy favorite to take the title.

PURPLE AND EAGLE FRESH TEAMS PLAY

By Joe Cashman

THE Purple and Eagle freshmen teams will clash at Braves Field next Saturday. Great interest is being manifested in this game. Coach Lee Deane's Purple team will be out of town. They have a little argument in with the Connecticut Agassiz. The first clash of the Purple and Agassiz's season is at the Wigwam.

Adler, an end, and Lillis, a halfback, are the outstanding Purple performers but every man on the eleven is a little better than the average.

All signs indicate that the end of the Purple football season is just around the corner. Fred, backfield and hockey graduates of the various schools are meeting in a school team along the more the number. And as soon as the season is over, we will print them.

There is a prelate's rumor that Jack Matthews, head coach at Malden and Water-town High, will succeed Coach Haddock at the former school next season. Jack is at Malden now as mentor of the freshman team.

Bruins Fail to Utilize Their Great Speed

By BILL GRIMES.

Judging from the hockey displays by the Bruins against the Chicago Blackhawks, the sooner the Bruins forget that they ever played in a Stanley Cup series, the better will be their chances of staying up in the fight this season.

From start to finish there was too much overconfidence in the tactics of the Bruins. Apparently they were laboring under the impression that they could go out and score enough goals to win at any time.

Obviously the Bruins have been, during the previous season, in their dazzling combination and perfecting of the perfect machine, but they did not have any combination play, there was little or nothing to their offense.

As a result of this, the Bruins were unable to score enough goals to win at any time. The Bruins were unable to score enough goals to win at any time.

Taffy Abel of New York Rangers Cracks Wrist
Taffy Abel, star defenseman of the New York Rangers, suffered a fractured wrist in the first period of the National Professional Hockey League game with Toronto here.

Abel was injured in a scuffle in front of the Ranger net five minutes before the close of the first period. He was taken to a hospital.

Abel, one of the greatest skaters in the league, probably will be out of the game most of the coming campaign.

Probably means nothing to the reader but it represents the above sum that Jack will be unable to pick up Friday for fighting Tom Heeneey in New York. Sharkey fractured the what's his bone when his left collided with Jack Gagnon's head in a training workout. Jack will not be ready for Heeneey until January.

"GENE TUNNEY will give Tex Rickard many a headache before the details for the next heavyweight championship battle are ironed out," chirped Mr. Boston as he slipped in out of the open places today. "The former marine is shivering in his statement that he wants to defend his title three times in 1928. He would like to fight early in June, early in July and the latter part of September.

"New York, Chicago and Philadelphia are the spots Tex has selected for his title adventures. It is a wonderful in this program, Gene will have his first fight in New York. Of course if Tunney were knocked out in his first championship bout, it would be a different story.

The real cause of the fight between Tunney and Rickard is due to the fact the division believes the master promoter favors Dempsey. It is of the opinion that Tex is the manager of Dempsey.

"There's no doubt about it. If I had my way, I'd have Tex fight the first five fights on his own. I'd have him fight the first five fights on his own. I'd have him fight the first five fights on his own.

UNDERSTAND Rickard's contract with Tunney calls for the exclusive right to the champion's next fight. Tex is now promoting 30, 1928, to set the date for this title battle. Under this provision he would lose as things Rickard has the upper hand.

"Tunney's best chance to get the edge on Rickard is by going to fight in Chicago. It is possible that Rickard's contract in the Windy City may be able to show that Rickard's contract is merely a scrap of paper.

"Gene is willing to defend his championship for Tex in June. This would enable him to battle twice more during the outdoor season provided he keeps winning.

TUNNEY resents the fact Rickard considers Dempsey the greatest drawing card in the world. Gene contends he has attracted a new element to the boxing game and that he is every bit as good a card as Dempsey.

"I must confess that I never considered Tunney much of a drawing card until the Chicago fight. When Dempsey and Tunney battled at Philadelphia, it was a Dempsey crowd. Everybody expected the Tiger to win by a quick knockout and they wanted to be on hand to see the big wallop go over.

"I thought similar conditions would exist in Chicago. When I breezed into the Windy City, I was surprised at the amount of Tunney sentiment. The ladies, in particular, all wanted Gene to win. There were also thousands of the alleged sterner sex who were rooting for the former marine.

"When the fighters were introduced, Tunney got his best hand. There was also not a single boo when the decision went to Tunney. The Dempsey faithful didn't get underway until the next day.

WAS talking with Rickard recently when he was lauding Dempsey to the very skies.

"Quit joking, Tex," I said. "I know and you know that you like Jack Dempsey better than any heavyweight in the world."

"Perhaps it was my boldness that caused Rickard to open up. Anyhow he laughed outright.

"Well, you can't blame me for loving Dempsey," he said. "He has drawn almost $100,000 for me. During the past year he has drawn in $100,000 with Tunney at Philadelphia, $100,000 with Sharkey in New York and $50,000 with Tunney in Chicago. Why wouldn't I love Dempsey?"

"A rather difficult question to answer."

Cranberries for Future Usage

By MARTHA LEE
Too little thought is given to what is back of the foods on the grocer's shelves and in his bins. The production of the food not only means livelihood for hundreds of thousands of people, but health to the individual family.

The cranberry is a healthful, economical article of food. The crop this year is good and the keeping qualities are good. The efficient, thrifty housewife will surely take advantage of the crop by putting away some for future use to be introduced into the daily menu later in many and various ways. Next summer you can be serving cranberry shortcake and cranberry cold drinks if you are forehanded now.

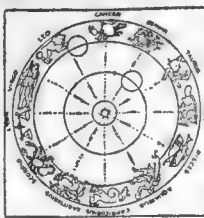

Cranberry sauce is the queen of the berries, easy to make, easy to make on short notice and handy to have on hand, so be sure to put some in jars. You make it this way:

The Story of the Stars

(The City of the Heavens)

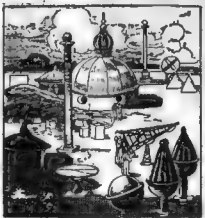

By Garrett P. Serviss

The central belt of the heavens in which sun, moon and planets travel was early named the Zodiac. It was divided into twelve equal parts called signs, and to each sign a fancied figure among the stars was assigned, as the diagram reveals.

The Danish astronomer, Tycho Brahe (1546-1601), was the greatest observer of his time. He invented wonderful instruments, such as the Immensus, quadrant, and others, which he used to observe the stars. His careful observations laid the foundations of astronomy as it is known today.

Tycho built a great observatory on the island of Hven, which became world-famous as "Uraniburg," or "City of the Heavens." Sometimes he practiced astrology, in a half-hearted way. Some of the fantastically shaped instruments of his "City" are illustrated above.

John Kepler, German astronomer (1571-1630), using Tycho's observations as a basis, worked out the three great laws of planetary motion. He perfected Copernicus's system, and prepared the way for Newton's important discoveries.

COOKING SCHOOL ECHOES

How I make good pies every time

For a medium size pie I use 2 1/2 cups flour, 1/2 cup Crisco, 1 teaspoon salt. To measure 1/2 of a cup of Crisco I take a measuring cup, put in 3/4 cup of cold water, then add enough Crisco to bring the water to the top of the cup, pour it off and I have an exact 1/2 cup of Crisco. Then I cut the Crisco into the flour with two knives, criss-cross fashion. (If I used my fingers the heat from them would soften the Crisco and blend it with the flour too closely to make a flaky crust.) As the Crisco is cut into small particles each one becomes covered with flour, and when enough cold water is added (4 to 6 tablespoons) the dough will then be composed of these small particles, which when rolled becomes layers of flour and Crisco. Then if baking is started in a very hot oven to set mixture before the Crisco has time to melt, the result will be a tender, flaky pastry.

the bowl and is soft enough so it will not break at the edges when rolled. It is easier to tell when you have just the right amount of water if you use your fingers to mix it. Now take half the dough, dust the board with flour, using as little as possible, and roll the pastry very lightly from the center outward, each motion of the rolling pin ending in the air, not on the board. It should be about an eighth of an inch thick. Fold it over one-half, lay over a Crisco plate, fold back over the plate, smooth into shape with the fingers and trim the edges.

center, turn back to cover it; press edges together with thumb and finger, trim, then press together again.

To keep the juice in
Take a strip of plain cloth about three inches wide, wet it in cold water and put around the edge of the plate, letting one half lie on top of the edge of the pie crust and the other half hang under the pie plate. Have the strip long enough so that the ends will lap over each other two or three inches. For very juicy fillings, make a little fund of paper or cake pieces of macaroni and stick into two or three of the slits you have made. The juices will bubble up into these and return to the pie as it cools.

When the pie is partly cool remove cloth and funnel.

When juices run out they will burn on the bottom of the oven, causing a smudge which is likely to add a smoky taste to the pie and leaving the oven hard to clean.

Be careful about water
Have the water cold and use only enough to make a paste which will easily clear

Brush it over with melted Crisco, dust a little flour over that, then add the filling prepared according to the recipe you are using. Moisten the edge with water, then roll the other half of the dough, fold it over one-half, make slits with a knife in the center of the fold for steam to escape. Lay over the pie, with the fold in the

Chocolate Meringue Pie

Make the pastry with Crisco and your pie shell will slip off the outside of the plate into the inside without breaking, and be tender and flaky too.

Cover an inverted pie plate with pastry, run back the edges to make it firm. Pick well with a fork to prevent bubbling. Bake in a hot oven (450° F.) about 15 minutes. Then fill with Chocolate Cream made as follows:

1 square from 16 lb. box of Crisco
1/2 cup sugar
1/2 cup milk
1/2 cup cream
1/2 cup vanilla
2 cups milk

Melt chocolate in double boiler. Blend sugar, salt and cream. Add milk. Cook until thick, stirring constantly. Add lemon egg white, melted chocolate and Crisco. Continue cooking a minute or two. Pour into the baked shell, cover with meringue made by beating 3 egg whites until stiff and dry, and add a tablespoon granulated sugar. Return to a hot oven (300° F.) for 15 minutes or until brown. Serve when thoroughly cool. Makes one medium sized pie.

Deep Dish Apple Pie

Serve in dishes they are baked in. Or when they are baked, turn them upside down on plates, cover with sweetened whipped cream, sprinkle with chopped nuts and call them Apple Cakes à la Mode.

Prepare 3 cups of sliced apples, then mix in 1 cup of sugar, 1/2 teaspoon cinnamon. Divide into 4 or 5 individual baking dishes. Add 1/2 teaspoon salt to each. Dust with bits of Crisco. Cover with the pastry, making slits in the center for steam to escape. Bake in hot oven (350° F.) until pastry turns to brown. Then reduce heat to moderate (325° F.) until apples are done. (About one-half hour.)

Butterscotch Tartlets

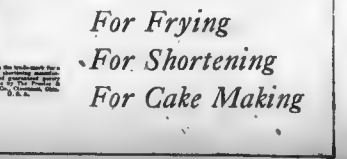

Use Crisco in making the pastry for these tartlets and the tender, flaky crust, blended with the delicious filling and flaky meringue will surely melt in your mouth.

Take two of dough about the size of an egg. Roll; cover the bottom of inverted muffin pan which have been greased with Crisco. Prick well with a fork to prevent bubbling. Bake in a hot oven (450° F.) about 15 minutes. When baked, dip shells of tart pan over and put in a muffin pan. Fill with the following Butterscotch Filling:

1 cup brown sugar
2 cups milk
2 cups cream
1/2 cup butter
1/2 cup vanilla
1/2 cup milk
1/2 cup cream
1/2 cup vanilla

Mix sugar, salt and flour. Add water. Cool until stiff, stirring constantly. Add butter, removing from stove, stir in beating egg. Add Crisco and vanilla. Cool slightly and fill the tart shells. Cover with a meringue made by beating 2 egg whites stiff and dry, add 2 tablespoons granulated sugar; cover tartlets, return to hot oven (300° F.) for 15 minutes or until brown. This amount will fill 12 tartlets.
